

ATTACKS SCHOOL TAX AMENDMENT

Oberholtzer Says Tulsans Would Lose $170,000 or More Yearly

"GIVE $25; GET $15"

Educational Committee Asks Chamber of Commerce to Oppose New Change

"If the proposed amendment to the state constitution, providing for the levying and distribution of school funds is passed, Tulsa will lose at the least $170,000 and more than likely the loss will be more than $200,000," E. E. Oberholtzer, superintendent of schools, said. The proposed amendment provides for an annual and ad valorem tax of not less than 5 mills and not more than 10.

The money so raised is to be paid of the common school fund and then of the common school fund, then into the state treasury to the credit distributed throughout the state by the state equalization board. The money is distributed proportionately and, according to Mr. Oberholtzer, this causes a loss of some $15 per pupil to Tulsa.

"We send in now about $25 a pupil and get back $15," he said, "and if this amendment passes, we would send in from $25 to $40. It means the advancement of the less progressive schools at the cost of the more progressive. It penalizes the bigger schools of the state and causes loss," he said.

In a report to the chamber of commerce the educational committee advised the chamber to oppose the amendment and to favor one providing for a 20-mill excess levy but keeping the money at home.

If that is done, the money raised locally will be spent locally," Oberholtzer said. "Now about half the money Tulsa raises is spent in other portions of the state," he said.

BABY NAMED LYDIA E.

Because Her Mother Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I could not write all my thanks for your blessed medicine. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in a very bad condition and had lost two babies. One of my good friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after I had taken eight or ten bottles I felt like a different woman. I kept on taking it until my baby girl was born last month and we have had christened Lydia Elizabeth. I wish you to publish my letter to benefit other women who are suffering as I was."—Mrs. KATHERINE KUNZACKER, 1086 Manhattan Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Women who suffer from any feminine ailment should not lose hope until they have tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The many convincing testimonials constantly published in the newspapers ought to be proof enough for women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the medicine they need.

The officers follow: Frank G. Jacobs, Los Angeles, Cal., president; H. L. Hope, Fort Worth, Texas, secretary-treasurer; Thomas L. Cavitt, Fellows, Cal., vice-president of district No. 1; C. B. The actual convention, which was held in Fort Worth the first two weeks in May, was unable to remain in session to wait the count of the vote in all parts of the United States.

The "Open Shop" in Little Rock

"The writer can truthfully say that Tulsa will either go down in history as an open shop town or it will not be any town at all. Now, dear reader, if you are prejudiced to an open shop town you might as well take the first train out of town."—From Tulsa Open Shop (Square Deal) Association ad.

The Little Rock (Ark.) Daily News, which has the largest circulation of any evening newspaper in Arkansas, has this to say regarding the "open shoppers."

THE MERCHANTS SUFFER.

The Little Rock retail merchants are the ones who are losing by the farce-comedy "open shop" fight that is being prolonged here by a few leaders in the Board of Commerce.

No one else is losing anything. There is a demand here for all the union men in the city; so the union workers are not losing anything.

The merchants are losing trade, and they know it. If there was any reason to prolong the fight, it would be different, but nothing is being gained by anybody.

The union people have agreed to the establishment of a court of arbitration, where all labor disputes can be settled.

Now, there never has been a time in the history of Little Rock when the city had a better opportunity to grow, there never was a time when more people wanted to build houses.

Little Rock's opportunity is here. And its opportunity is being lost in a foolish little local fight that never can bring a penny's benefit to any man.

In fact any man who knows anything at all knows that it is impossible to get the best class of working men to come to Little Rock, when other cities around us are offering higher wages, and have no labor troubles.

Men who come to Little Rock now to work must be the sort who didn't have jobs where they came from, because Memphis, St. Louis, Shreveport and all the surrounding cities are offering special inducements to working men.

The houses that are under course of construction now in Little Rock, many of them, will not be finished until next spring unless there is some way to get more men to Little Rock to do the work.

In fact Little Rock is standing still when it might be going ahead faster than it has in the last twenty-five years, faster than it ever has, if it were not for the foolish fight to establish "open shop" in the building trades.

And if the open shop were established to-day, it would be a closed shop tomorrow, because workmen will organize in spite of the world.

Strikes have already been pulled off in Little Rock by the so-called "open shop" gang; and there will always be labor troubles, organized or unorganized, a gang of workmen will get their heads together. There is everything to lose and nothing to gain by prolonging this labor fight. The News has nothing at heart except the best interests of the City of Little Rock, for the workmen and for the merchants and for the city who depend upon the workmen for support.

The trade that ought to stay in Little Rock is going to the mail order houses and to the nearby cities, and merchants that could not secure sufficient help behind their counters before the trouble started now find they have too much help.

Trade is falling off and has been falling off since the first of the year, and will continue to fall off until the labor fight is settled.

The labor people have offered to settle by arbitration. Is there a fairer way to settle the dispute?

Is there any other way to settle it? There are upwards of 8,000 union men here, most of them heads of families, many of them home owners here, some of them life citizens.

Can the business interests of Little Rock afford to have these men permanently alienated from the city as trades people? These railroad men are going to stay here.

They will always be citizens, but if they trade with mail order houses and send away from Little Rock to buy what they need they will not contribute very much to the support of the city.

And they have pledged themselves in their meetings to buy their stuff away from Little Rock, except in cases where they can buy from a merchant who has not endorsed the "open shop." It is unfair to the merchants of Little Rock to prolong this fight. It is unfair to the property owners of Little Rock to prolong this fight.

Nine-tenths of the people of Little Rock want to see the troubles ended, and that very soon, the City of Little Rock is going to take steps backward.

And unless they are ended, and that very soon, the City of Little Rock is going to take steps backward.

GIVE CANTATA AT FIRST CHRISTIAN

Evening Sermon Is Replaced by Program of Music Yesterday.

Dispensing with the usual Sunday evening sermon, the First Christian church yesterday was the scene of a "sermon in song." Rev. Meade E. Dutt, pastor, joined with the choir and with the congregation in singing. Ernest Prangmann followed the words of the lengthy cantata on the church organ.

Four soloists, a solo quartet, nine alto, six tenors and six basses as well as 11 sopranos were in the program. "The Vision of a John" was the title of the cantata. It was written by C. Whitney Combs and contains an interpretation of the vision as recorded in Revelations. It is termed a modern composition and is the first of a series of musical programs possible only with the recent addition to the church of a new pipe organ.

STUDENTS WON'T MIX

Effort to Democratize German Universities Meets With Opposition, Conflict Developing.

BERLIN, May 23.—A conflict is developing between various student fraternities and the socialist propaganda minister of education, Herr Haenschel. His plan to democratize universities is meeting with strong opposition from many of the students, a large number of whom are traditionally staunch supporters of monarchist pan-German and anti-Semitic principles. They acclaimed the advent of Dr. Wolfgang Kapp and the militaristic counter-revolution with enthusiasm.

To qualify their influence in these matters, Herr Haenschel worked out a scheme under which equality of status was established between foreign students and German students. Fraternities were forbidden to engage in political and religious agitation, and a government representative was to act as a friendly committee with authority to supervise their activities and report upon them.

These measures are wrathfully denounced as oppressively reactionary by the student world of Germany which is preparing to resist their imposition to the uttermost. Especially do they object to the proposal that foreign students at German universities should be placed on an equality with themselves. At the present time the German universities are said to be overrun with Polish and Russian students and German youths do not relish the idea of having to fraternize with them on equal terms. Still more strongly do they resent having government representatives sent among them to act, they say, as "informers."
